

Learn Esperanto!

Access a wealth of cultures.

Any system of communication that benefits a select few while crippling everyone else is fundamentally undemocratic. While Esperanto is not perfect, it is far superior to national languages for egalitarian communication on a global scale.

See the
for free!

Esperanto is an international language for bringing people together. For over a century, people all over the world have been using Esperanto to communicate with each other on an equal footing, sharing culture, literature, and music.

Promote linguistic equality.

Like to travel? Why bother with tour guides when you can talk directly with friendly locals? Even better, why not let those locals put you up – for free? Thousands of travellers are doing just that with the Pasporta Servo, which provides free housing to Esperanto-speaking tourists in over 90 countries!
